

Headteacher's Message

Welcome back to another busy half term! I hope you all had a good half term break and enjoyed the bonfire celebrations this week.

Every half term is always busy, for lots of reasons but this one of course involves Christmas (sorry, I know it's only the 7th November). Dates have been set for performances and concerts, although some are still provisional as we need to check with the church and PFA, but they may be worth popping in your diary now.

The children have made a fantastic start to the new term and I am looking forward to seeing all the progress they make.

Thank you for your continued support!

Miss Ramsbottom 😊

Pupil News

Well done to 6B and 5L who have filled their marble reward jars this week and will be celebrating by having a special reward time! Keep going everyone – stay on green all week, earn your marble and fill those jars!

Please make sure that your child always brings a coat to school – even on dry mornings, as the weather can often change and we really need to get the children outside as much as possible for fresh air and exercise. Children will not be allowed to take coats off during playtimes and 'leave them on the benches' in the hope that not only will the children stay warm and dry but also that coats will stop 'going missing' or get muddy by falling on the floor. Names in coats and jumpers would really help too! Thank you!

Please could we ask that key rings on bags are limited to one each day! We love to see them but when bags are being stored in trays or boxes, too many key rings just don't fit!

We put cones and the yellow 'A' frames out to help keep our children safe. On Wednesday, as Mr Blades arrived back at school all were in the correct place to do their very important job. When we went out to collect them at the end of the day, this is what he found.

I just have no idea why parents run over the cones that are trying to keep their children safe. Please be more considerate!

In work and play, only our best!
